Notes:

- The main period of residence for undergraduate and Master's students is determined by the dormitory accommodation agreement. Where residence is extended beyond the term specified in the agreement, the daily rate set out in Clause 1.3 of this Price List shall apply. Any such extension shall be formalized in accordance with the procedure established by the University.
- The daily rates specified in Clause 1.3 of this Price List shall apply to the actual number of additional days of residence.
- The specific dormitory, block, room and bed space shall be determined by the University, taking into account the organization and actual condition of the University's housing stock. Allocation of accommodation to a student shall not constitute assignment of a specific dormitory, block, room or bed space for the entire period of residence.
- The University may relocate a resident to another dormitory, block, room or other available residential premises within the University's housing stock where required for operational, maintenance or other justified reasons, including repairs, reconstruction, emergency works, sanitary or technical works, or temporary closure of individual premises, floors, blocks or dormitories, provided that alternative accommodation is made available.
- Where relocation is initiated by the University for reasons unrelated to the resident's actions, the accommodation fee shall not be increased. If the accommodation provided is subject to a lower rate, the rate applicable to such accommodation shall apply. Where relocation is made at the resident's request, the rate applicable to the new accommodation shall apply from the actual date of relocation.
- Residential premises under Clause 1.6 of this Price List shall be provided by decision of the University, subject to availability within the University's housing stock. The procedure for allocation, distribution and occupancy shall be determined by the University.
- The terms and procedure for payment of accommodation by international students participating in academic mobility programmes shall be determined with due regard to the provisions of the applicable inter-university agreement.
